City Council Sets Liquor Closing at Midnight

ALL VOTE FOR ENACTMENT OF NEW CURFEW

2 Night Club Licenses Under Investigation; Fire Dept. Increase Authorized.

With nearly 150 representatives of church and civic groups looking on, city council last night unanimously voted for passage of an ordinance establishing a 12 o'clock midnight curfew on the sale of beer, wine or intoxicating liquors in restaurants, beer parlors and night clubs.

The ordnance forbids sale of liquors and beer between the hours of 12 midnight and 6 a. m. during week days and between the hours of 12 midnight Saturday and 6 a. m. Monday.

Several of the onlookers had voiced their approval of the measure as drawn up and urged council to adopt it immediately. Frank Wiedemann, speaking in behalf of the Marion County Liquor Dealers Association, said that organization wished to express its approval of the ordinance and to assure the citizenry that it would cooperate to the fullest extent in observing the law.

Report on Two Night Clubs

In connection with the liquor curfew, council members in caucus heard a report by Russel Wilhelm, assistant city solicitor, on an investigation of the status of the Mayfair and Royal night clubs. In his report, made at the request of council members, Mr. Wilhelm stated that neither of the two places are serving meals as required of all night clubs and other places of business holding state liquor permits.

Mr. Wilhelm said that never before has a liquor permit been issued in Marion to any place of business unless that place has served meals along with the liquor. Consequently, he said, he did not at first believe the report that the Mayfair night club was not serving meals.

Captain Kirts, Mr. Wilhelm said, was sent to make the preliminary investigation of the situation and reported that the Mayfair was selling no food, had no kitchen and that the only semblance of a stove was a small gas grate which apparently was never used.

Police Investigation

Mr. Wilhelm later sent two plain clothes policemen of the city police department to make a further check.

He said they were instructed to go into the Mayfair restaurant and order steaks and French fried potatoes. Mr. Wilhelm said both men reported they were unable to get any food in either the night club section of the building or the bar on the other side.

He said the same condition exists at the Royal Cafe; both places, he said, were free to admit to "customers" that they were not selling food in their establishments.

In addition, the acting solicitor said the Mayfair has been selling 3.2 beer on Sundays throughout the day until midnight and then promptly opening the sale of hard liquors until closing time at 2:30 Monday morning.

After presenting his report to council members, Mr. Wilhelm asked and immediately received their approval of a proposal to refer the matter to the state liquor department for action. Mr. Wilhelm said a letter signed by city officials would be sent to the state department today.

"The serving of meals is a prerequisite to the issuance of the liquor permit and therefore should be a requirement to the continuance of the permit," Mr. Wilhelm said.

Cites Ravenna Experience

Another thing, he said, that had been revealed by his investigation was the absolute falsity of reports that Ravenna has been having so much trouble because of its liquor curfew, which closes the sale at 11 p. m. Mr. Wilhelm said the chief of police in Ravenna told James E. Reed, county prosecutor, yesterday that the ordinance has been so satisfactory that [illegible] a gentlemen's agreement the dealers have been allowed to stay open until 11:30 on Saturday.

Delay Till After War Seen for City Hospital Addition

Suggestion for "Temporary Structure" Made in Letter from Regional FWA Engineer.

Developments last night and this morning made it appear Marion is unlikely to get a permanent addition to its City hospital until after the war.

One development was a letter read to city council last night by Mayor Snare. It was from D. B. Kennicott of Chicago, regional FWA engineer, advising the city that the application for materials as now set up includes too many critical war materials. Mr. Kennicott urged that the city's architect be advised to set up a list of materials for a "temporary structure" to serve for the duration.

Health Service Report

The other development came this morning when the mayor received a letter from the United States public health service in answer to an inquiry he had made several weeks ago. He had asked for a report on a survey the health service had made of hospital facilities in Marion several months ago. Today's letter informed him that the results of the survey would not be made public at this time. It added that a public health service representative will call in Marion within the next two weeks to see if this city is interested in proceeding with a "temporary" hospital addition. The language of the letter seemed to indicate that the health service had previously been advised of the FWA engineer's recommendation that plans for a permanent structure here be abandoned until after the war, Mayor Snare commented.

Will Call Meeting

These developments immediately raised dozens of questions, most of which probably will be threshed out at a meeting of the City hospital building commission, to be called in the near future by Mayor Snare. He said T. D. McLaughlin & Associates of Lima, retained as architects for the city, will be represented at the meeting and a new analysis made of the outlook.

One of the problems to be reconsidered is whether the federal government is likely to provide funds to put up a temporary hospital addition. Neither letter received by the mayor touches on this point. Mayor Snare said he doubted whether the City hospital building commission would be interested in using any of a $200,000 city bond issue to put up a temporary building. The possibility of getting federal funds for a temporary building is considered favorable in view of the fact the Scioto Ordnance Plant will greatly increase the city's population and consequently the demand for hospital services.

More Details Needed

Another question to be decided is what the FWA engineer and the U. S. health service mean when they refer to a "temporary

WHAT COUNCIL DID

Summary of council action last night:

Midnight curfew placed on liquor sales in place of present 2:30 a. m. closing. Church groups spoke in support of curfew.

Letters read indicating Marion will not get materials for permanent addition to City hospital until after the war.

Ordinance authorizing addition of six men to fire department passed.

City solicitor authorized to report to state liquor department that two Marion night clubs are failing to operate restaurants as required by state law.

Tentative approval given plans to have some of new parking meters set for two-hour parking.

WILL SOUND RAID "ALERT"

Mobilization Set for Wednesday Between 7:30 and 10 P. M.; No Blackout.

Announcement that another air raid "alert" will be sounded tomorrow night was made today by William R. Martin, Marion county defense coordinator.

He said the alert will be sounded sometime between 7:30 and 10 p. m.

Kenneth Fields, signal chief, has announced factory whistles, church and school bells, sirens and aerial bombs will be used to make the warning effective. In addition, all car owners are requested to sound their horns for two or three minutes immediately after the first notes of the alert are heard.

It is hoped this method of sounding the alert will prove successful. The last general mobilization about a month ago was ineffective because of the failure of the signal system.

Mr. Martin said all civilian defense officials will mobilize tomorrow night and will remain so until the "all clear" is sounded. He said the alert may last as long as an hour.

No Blackout

There will be no blackout during the alert, but in connection with the mobilization activities all air raid wardens will contact their districts in a house-to-house check-up and inquiries will be made as to what preparations, if any, have been made for a blackout, L. Earl Ruhlman, chief air warden said.

He said the following options will be checked: (1) complete house blackout; (2) single room blackout or (3) blackout by use of directed light.

Mr. Ruhlman said the Central Civilian control office on North State street will be open during and after the alert for reports on the progress and outcome of the mobilization.

Marion Factory Uses New Plan To Cut Tool Breakage

Universal Cooler Corp. workmen are taking extraordinary precautions against breakage of machine tools these days.

The reason—the Tokyo Kid.

The Tokyo Kid is a drawing of a typical Jap mounted on a big board at the company's plant. On the same board are displayed tools that have been broken through negligence or carelessness of workers.

A big label on the board states, "These tools are working for the Tokyo Kid."

The breakage prevention idea is sponsored by the labor-management production committee at the plant and was originated by John Martin, president of the company union.

STRIKE STATEMENT ISSUED BY HOTEL

Manager Says Only 19 Off Work; Strike in 4th Day.

Desiring to "give the public a true picture of the Hotel Harding strike," Virgil Dye, hotel manager, told a reporter today that 19 employes, not 45-50 as previously charged by union officials, are participating in the strike which entered its fourth day today.

"We are functioning quite efficiently," Mr. Dye added. Seventy-four persons were working in the hotel this morning, he said.

M. A. Kenny of Cincinnati, international representative of the union, said yesterday that 65 per cent of the hotel staff was out on strike. Denying the earlier statement of the union official, Mr. Dye said that a total of 86 employes was on the last payroll, whereas the union claimed 77 persons were on the payroll.

In discussing the situation this morning, W. J. Malone, secretary-treasurer and business representative of the union, charged the hotel with importing strike breakers from Springfield.

Answers Complaint

In answer to the charges, Mr. Dye said that three bell hops from the Bancroft hotel came to Marion today to take permanent positions as bell hops here at regular pay. The three men were former employes of S. W. Gerstner, new manager of Hotel Harding succeeding Mr. Dye who enlisted in ground forces of the U. S. army air corps yesterday at Patterson field. Mr. Dye is to report to Patterson field next Monday to begin training.

Mr. Malone said the union refused to allow the Springfield men admittance to the building. Mr. Dye said that the men re-

BRITISH SEND 450 PLANES TO BLAST NAZIS

German Occupied Holland and France Suffer Widespread Damage.

By The Associated Press

Waves of British warplanes, perhaps 450 strong, visited another night of terror, death and destruction upon Germany's industrial valley of the Ruhr before dawn today and also struck at targets in Nazi-occupied France and Holland.

Eighteen RAF bombers were acknowledged missing from the overnight assaults, which followed a British radio broadcast urging people of France to evacuate the coastal areas from the Belgian frontier to the Pyrenees.

The broadcast warned of impending allied operations of "capital importance" to be executed "at the most opportune moment."

In "intruder" raids over France and Holland—aimed at diverting German defenses from the RAF's main objective—American-made Boston bombers exploded an ammunition dump on the Schiptl airdrome and pockmarked the runways with direct hits.

Trains Attacked

Another pilot derailed a freight train engine and a Hurricane fired cannon shells into six other locomotives. The raids continued the RAF's virtually ceaseless attacks on German rail systems, so vital to Nazi control of western Europe.

The losses were the heaviest reported since the 1,000-bomber raid on the great steel city of Essen last week, but were believed well below the dangerous 10 per cent figure which makes raiding unprofitable.

"Fighter command aircraft on intruder operations attacked airfields and railway objectives in northern France and Holland," the air ministry also said.

"An aircraft of the coastal command destroyed an enemy seaplane over the North Sea."

The recent average of losses of less than four per sent on British night operations indicated that more than 450 planes took part in the engagements.

Berlin radio broadcasts said eight raiders were shot down in this sixth June attack upon the western reaches of the reich.

"Slight damage was caused in residential districts of towns by high explosives," a German announcer said.

On Russian Front

In the Russian campaign, Soviet dispatches reported that German tanks, troops and planes attacking in a five-day-old offensive against Russia's long-besieged Black sea naval base of Sevastopol, in the Crimea, had been thrown back in fierce battles in two sectors.

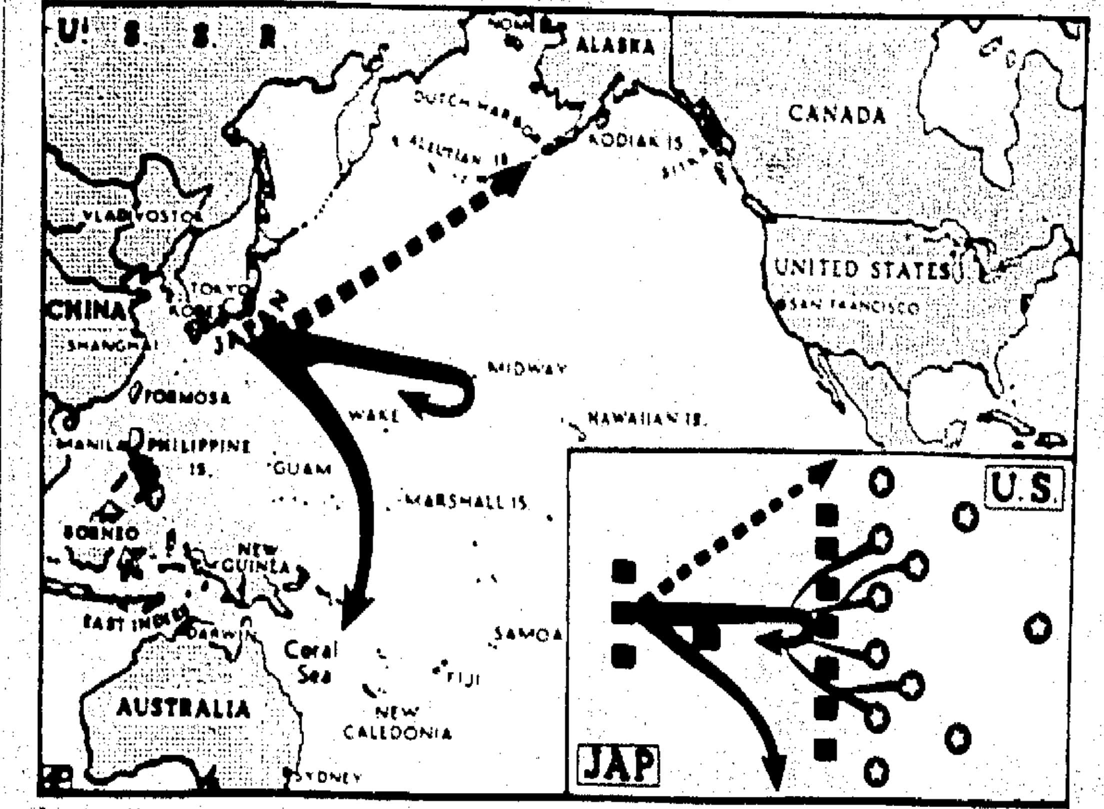

By contrast, German field headquarters asserted that Nazi infantry, supported by heavy artillery and strong air squadrons, stormed Soviet defenses on a height commanding Sevastopol and repulsed Russian counter-attacks with "bloody losses."

Dispatches to Red Star, the Soviet army newspaper, said the Germans were suffering terrific casualties in the new drive after losing 50,000 men since the siege began seven months ago.

Red Star said German General Fritz Erich Von Mannstein was throwing clouds of airplanes and

HOW U. S. TEAMWORK THREW JAPS FOR LOSS AT MIDWAY

Inset diagram in this Pacific map shows how United States forces operated like a smart football team. A right end try (lower black arrow) into the Coral sea, then an aerial attack (broken arrow) at Dutch Harbor, Alaska, might have pulled the defense of a less heads-up outfit away from center. But the United States was there when the smash came through center (bent arrow), and a once mighty Japanese force, perhaps the main body of the imperial fleet, was sent limping westward in retreat. At least three Japanese warships were sunk in the Midway battle, and 13 or more others damaged. (Associated Press Map).

Dozens of Floats Set for Flag Day Parade

Marion Factories' Products for War, Displays from Nearby Communities in Sunday Event.

A parade as big, as colorful as any staged in Marion in years, a parade to show everyone for miles around that Marion not only is 100 per cent for the war effort but is producing the stuff that's going to win the war, is beginning to take shape.

It will be staged in Marion on Sunday, Flag Day, at 4 p. m. and be known as the Allied Victory parade. It was at the first general get-together of the marshals and chairmen at a dinner last night in Hotel Harding that the scope of the patriotic demonstration began to become apparent.

Doesn't an 18-wheel crane, complete with consignment designation to the United States navy sound like something to see?

Won't it be something to see anti-aircraft guns?

The Osgood Co. will have the crane in the parade, the Marion Steam Shovel Co. will enter the anti-aircraft guns.

Morrow county already is beginning work on the Morrow county float, according to L. E. Garver of Mt. Gilead, the county marshal, and C. V. Messenger of Mt. Gilead who attended the meeting with him.

Morrow Co. Float

The Morrow county float will be a replica of the "victory shaft" the county won for its part in World War I, the shaft that now stands in the square at Mt. Gilead.

The Hydraulic Press Mfg. Co. of Mt. Gilead definitely will have one float in the parade, probably two. The Mt. Gilead High school band will be in the parade.

Each county will be in the parade as a unit.

R. K. Dusseau of the Hunkin-Conkey Construction Co., chairman of the Scioto Ordnance Plant participation, informed the parade organization in writing that tentative information points to a float entered by the iron workers, one by the road builders, two by the painters—one a "Toonerville Trolley"—three from Holabird & Root, architect - engineers, one from the war department, one ambulance and first aid unit, two navy recruiting unit station wagons.

In addition, James T. Flower, chief of the division of patrol for the U. S. Rubber Co., has signified his intention of having from 50 to 75 uniformed guards in the line of march and Joe Keefe of the employment office will furnish two horses with full regalia and riders and the motorcycle dispatch riders have signified their intention of participating. The plant also will enter a Model-T Ford, 1909 vintage, appropriately decorated.

Marion Floats

To date floats have been promised by the Fairfield Engineering Co., Marion Steam Shovel Co., Marion-Reserve Power Co., the Osgood Co., the Universal Cooler Corp., Marion Rapid Transit, Inc., and the Pollak Steel Co.

The Harding High school band, Mt. Gilead High school band, Claridon band and the band of Buckeye Aerie No. 337, F. O. Eagles, already are "in" and there is a possibility that bands from Kenton, LaRue, Richwood and Morral will be added to the colorful event, Robert T. Mason, general chairman, said last night.

Harold Grigsby and Earl Pierce, chairman of the industrial division of which Dan LaMarche is marshal, reported contacting 19 plants. Practically all will respond with a float or a demonstration of equipment.

William Preston, one of the chairmen of the commercial-retail division, and A. L. Watt, marshal of the fraternal division, said they had no definite reports to make yet.

Mr. Watt today asked that all fraternal groups, both men and women, who plan to be in the parade notify him not later than 4 p. m. Thursday as to how many members will be marching. The information will be necessary in order to reserve the proper space for the fraternal division.

William R. Martin, co-chairman of the Civilian Defense division, said leaders of the various units have been notified and that if all units turn out there should be at least [illegible] men and women in that division alone.

[illegible]

T. E. [illegible], who with Major George [illegible] and C. C. Roberts, is serving as a parade marshal, reported [illegible] various veterans groups in Marion and surrounding counties.

His Plane Shot Down, Flying Texan Watches Battle Adrift on Ocean

Pilot Conceals Self Under Seat Cushion, Sees U. S. Aircraft Blast Enemy Ships to Bits.

By WALTER B. CLAUSEN
Associated Press Writer

PEARL HARBOR, HAWAII, June 9—A tough, fighting Texan who floated for 24 hours amidst the savage Midway island sea battle returned with a stirring eyewitness account of Japanese naval destruction as viewed from the surface of the sea—where he hid under a seat cushion from his sunken torpedo-plane to escape detection.

Shot down in the morning of the first day of the historic battle and rescued the next, Ensign George H. Gay's vivid observations of American successes were disclosed last night.

The navy flier from Houston, Tex., is recovering from slight wounds at a hospital here. He was shot down—but not before he had his crack at the Japs.

Flying with his squadron on June 4, the first day of the battle, Gay and his two mates saw three Jap aircraft carriers below them, two of the vessels big 26,-000-tonners.

In the face of terrific anti-aircraft fire they leveled for the assault. Gay's machine-gunner was hit, but he nosed the plane down and launched a torpedo into one big carrier.

But bullets from a Jap Zero fighter shot away the controls of Gay's plane. Gay was hit in the left leg. Cooly, he pancaked his craft into the sea several miles astern of the carrier.

His gunner was dead. His radioman, unable to free himself, went down with the plane.

Gay's luck was with him. From the wreckage [illegible]

12 DIE AS TWO BLIMPS CRASH

Mid-Air Collision Sends Craft, on Experimental Flight, Into Ocean.

By The Associated Press

LAKEHURST, N. J., June 9 — Coast guards recovered today three bodies and wreckage from one of two navy training blimps lost in what apparently was a mid-air collision over the Atlantic ocean on an unexplained "experimental mission."

Only one survivor was known. Still missing were nine of the 13 naval and civilian occupants of the G-1 and the smaller L-2 when they set out last night from the naval air station at Lakehurst. The airships plunged into the ocean about four miles off Manasquan, which is about 16 miles northeast of Lakehurst.

Three Found in Gondola

Sheriff Lewis Menninger of Ocean county reported recovery of the three bodies in the gondola of the L-2, dragged ashore at Point Pleasant beach.

Among the bodies is that of Lt. Cmdr. Clinton S. Rounds of Toms River, senior officer aboard the two craft and a survivor of the dirigible Macon disaster off the California coast in 1935.

All occupants of the blimps were equipped with life-jackets for use should the craft be forced down in the water. They were about 400 feet above the sea when they apparently collided.

Ensign Howard Fahey of Scarsdale, N. Y. was rescued and brought ashore by coast guards early today. He suffered an apparent fracture of an arm in the crash, but swam about until picked up.

A clock in the Gondola of the L-2 had stopped at 10:30 p. m.

List of Casualties

Those dead or missing were:

Lieutenant Commander Rounds, listed as a pilot.

Lieut. Frank A. Trotter, Toms River.

Ensign C. C. Ross, Jacksonville, Fla.

Ensign K. G. Lee, New London, Conn.

O. V. Roos, aviation chief machinists mate, Lakewood, N. J.

R. C. Poteet, aviation chief machinist's mate, Langdon, Kan.

W. H. Herndon Jr., boatswain's mate, first class, Lakehurst.

These civilians were aboard:

Dr. J. C. Hoover, Middletown, Conn.

L. S. Oyer, Minneapolis, Minn.

Vella Tillies, San Diego, Calif.

F. C. Gilbert, New London.

Dr. A. B. Wyse, San Diego.

ALL INTER-CITY ROUTES IN U. S. ARE AFFECTED

Order Effective July 1 To Curtail Operations; Eliminate Express.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 9— The office of defense transportation took war-time control today over all of the nation's inter-city bus operations, ordering present routes frozen, competitive service pooled, and all express service discontinued. The order is effective July 1.

After that date, ODT directed, no inter-city buses may be operated "for the primary purpose" of serving golf courses, athletic fields, race tracks, theaters, dancing pavilions, or "other places conducted primarily for the purpose of amusement or entertainment."

Resorts Affected

An ODT spokesman said this would affect bus service to beaches and other resorts provided the buses were used primarily to take passengers to such places.

In addition, except for one daily round trip, bus companies must discontinue schedules which fail to show an average load in both directions of less than 40 per cent of the seating capacity of the buses used. Operators are required to keep records of passenger miles and seat miles and report to ODT any round trip schedule which fails to meet the seating capacity requirement.

"Inter-city bus service," as defined by the order, excludes runs within 15 miles of city limits and schedules on which the average fare is 35 cents or less.

Extensions Prohibited

The order prohibits any extension of bus routes after July 1 without special permission of ODT. Operators of competing lines must plan jointly for maximum use of equipment through pooling of services, staggered schedules, exchange of operating rights, or other means, ODT declared.

Such plans, or a statement as to why no plans have been agreed upon, must be submitted to ODT by July 30.

Express service was ordered stopped, ODT said, to release vehicles needed in local service.

The nationwide control followed two special orders based on operators' plans affecting four bus lines operating New York and Washington and two lines operating in the west. Other special orders covering particular routes and lines are forthcoming, ODT noted.

"EMERGENCY" TIRES SEEN BY INDUSTRY

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, June 9—There will be an "emergency" or "interim" automobile tire designed to keep most of America's motorcars in operation until the government-sponsored rubber substitute program bears fruit, if the combined technological resources of the nation's automotive and tire industries can produce it.

A spokesman for both industries emphasized, however, the solution to the present rubber shortage was not "just around the corner."

The committee, headed by James G. Zeder, chief engineer in charge of laboratories for Chrysler Corporation, has been exploring for more than a month all possible sources of relief for the impending tire shortage.

Asked whether thiokol, the substitute upon which Dow Chemical Company has been working, was included among the possibilities, Zeder replied:

"All materials are being considered."

The committee's objective, he said is to "do something quickly" to meet the essential transportation needs.

Minor Athletic Injuries

YESTERDAY we wrote of one of the conditions which may be induced by summer athletics or may affect the armed forces in training, namely, foot strain. There are a number of other disabilities that occur from athletic exercise and marching which, though apparently minor, at times give a great deal of trouble and anxiety and may require time out for more or less prolonged periods.

One of these is the condition known as "muscle bound." There is no one cause for this; it is probably due to a number of things because any part of the motor system is a mass of muscles, tendons, bones, tendinous insertions, bursae, etc., all of them likely to be torn, sprained, irritated or inflamed from overuse.

The muscle bound baseball or tennis player is unable to move some limb either effectively or without pain and this may be due to any one of a combination of the conditions described in the previous sentence. The most positive thing we know about the condition is that it is no use to try to rush the treatment but that it responds to rest at first, followed by heat and massage and gradual use and exercise.

A somewhat similar condition is known as "charley horse." This is pretty well localized to one muscle, comes on suddenly with a strained movement and is undoubtedly due to the rupture of a small blood vessel with a consequent hemorrhage into the body of the muscle or rupture of a muscle sheath. It also responds to time, patience, rest and massage.

"Shin splints" is a term used especially by track men. It is a pain along the shin bone which extends into the toe and extensor muscles of the toe. It is due to many minor injuries, such as occur in running on hard surfaces, pounding on a track, cement floor or the hardwood floor in a gymnasium. It is especially likely to occur from sudden starts and stops.

Any athlete is likely to use and punish one limb more than the other. Shin splints occur usually early in the training season. The healing is slow and recovery is prolonged. The front surface of the lower part of the shin is very tender and hard and tense to feel. The best method of relief is by means of circular taping. It is probably due to a tearing of the muscles at their insertion in the shin bone or in the toes. As with the other forms of athletic injury, the taping can be supplanted by heat and massage.

So-called "tennis elbow" was described first by a physican tennis player. He said it has a symptom complex rather than a pathological entity. The end of the bone in the elbow becomes progressively sore and in the course of time it can not be used at all. An X-ray examination shows nothing; diagnosis has to be made by some one familiar with the condition and of course depends on the history of playing tennis and the gradual onset.

It is not due to a sudden strain, but is probably due to an inflammation of the bursa around the elbow joint. For mild cases the old formula of rest, heat and massage works all right, but in very severe cases it is sometimes necessary to dissect out the bursa surgically.

I hope that all army doctors who have to deal with men in training who are doing extra marching and athletics will become acquainted with the book by Augustus Thorndike: Athletic Injuries: Prevention, Diagnosis and Treatment. Our medical courses do not give medical students very much instruction along these lines.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Gets a Rest and Awaits Chance to Tell Spencer About Gangster Listening Post at the Lansfield.

JACK gave me no chance to answer his tender assurance of gratitude to me. He stooped, kissed me quickly on the forehead, murmuring "God bless you and keep you," then strode swiftly to the outer door which my father had locked.

Only with an effort I kept myself from rushing after him and hysterically demanding a promise that he would not disappear again. There was something solemn in the kiss he had given me that I was frightened. It had seemed like the kiss a man would give if he never expected to see again the person to whom he was saying farewell.

But I knew that any protest from me not only would be useless, as far as shaking Jack's determination was concerned, but would cause him great distress, of which he had had far more than his share already. So I made no sound or movement as I heard the sound of unlocking the connecting door, followed by my father's voice saying in low tones, "Go on through, Jack, and wait for me. I won't be a minute."

Urges Madge to Rest

Then I heard my father coming toward me, and composed my agitated face to meet what I knew would be a searching and appraising gaze.

But he delivered no verdict on my calmness, or lack of it. Instead he spoke briskly, and the suggestion he made was a mandate.

"There's a comfortable couch over there. Better stretch out on it and relax. Take a nap if you can. I shall be busy for the better part of an hour, then I shall want to talk to you."

"Dicky? Mary?" I asked, uncertainly.

"I have checked up on possible trains for Richard," he said, "there is no chance of his getting in before midnight, and Mary won't be much ahead of him. We shall be back at the hotel long before either of them arrives."

I choked back the revelation that we could not go back to the hotel because of what I had learned of a "listening post" in the Lansfield, whose identity I strongly suspected. That I meant to tell him as soon as I should have a good opportunity.

"Then," I said lightly, "a nap seems to be indicated for me."

He smiled at me in evident relief.

"Do try to sleep," he said, then went hurriedly upon the word, locking the door behind him.

I knew the room I was in, as well as the house, was thoroughly guarded, and, with a feeling of safety folding about me like a warm blanket, I slipped off my shoes, stretched out on the couch and pulled a light knitted wool afghan over me.

If anyone had told me I could sleep, I would have hooted incredulously, but my head had scarcely touched the pillow before I was sound asleep.

I did not hear him unlock the door or cross the room, but when I came back to wakefulness I heard my father's voice just above me, saying over and over in a monotonous voice, "Margaret! Wake up, dear!"

Plans to Tell Spencer

He evidently was determined not to startle me, and as I opened my eyes, I smiled up at him.

"I've had the most marvelous nap," I told him, "and I didn't think I'd be able to sleep a wink."

"You look infinitely better," he said, "and I am greatly relieved. You were positively gray with fatigue when you came in. Do you feel equal to talking now, or—when did you eat?"

"We had some sandwiches on the way down," I told him, "and presently I think Jack and Professor Diswell ought to have dinner. I'll be ready for food also. But first I must tell you, without any delay, why I telephoned Dr. Twitchell and asked him to have you and Ronald leave the hotel."

Red Cross Work Reported

Chairmen List Committee Activities at Monthly Board Session; Secretary Reports.

Reports of work done by the various committees of the Marion County Red Cross chapter were given when the executive committee met Monday noon at Hotel Harding.

T. D Bain, chairman of the first aid committee, announced that 50 persons were qualified to teach first aid as a result of the training received from T C McDaniel, first aid field director of the national Red Cross.

During the month six standard first aid classes were completed with 111 persons qualified to receive certificates. Thirty-one persons completed the 10-hour air raid warden course.

Instructors in charge of the standard classes were George Fetter, Theodore Brownlee, Austin Boyd, Miss Virginia O'Dowd, Walter Denker and John Sekinger.

Home Nursing

The Home Nursing report, which was presented by Mrs. J. C. Ackerman, chairman, showed that five classes were completed last month with 66 persons receiving certificates.

Instructors for those classes were Miss Thelma Malo, Mrs. Thelma Anderson, Miss Helen Andrews, Mrs Glenn Martin and Miss Helen Kater.

Mrs. F. J. Hurst's report on nutrition listed 31 persons as having received certificate for completing the course taught by Miss Jane Gorsuch, nutritionist. Mrs Hurst also reported that a new class had been organized under the leadership of Mrs Miller. Mrs. Frances Clark, Mrs. Charlotte Cook, Mrs Emma McNamara and Mrs. Alwyn Crane

Mrs. Jane Alexander, in charge of special volunteer service, reported that three classes were organized in the service division. In the staff assistant's course, of which Miss Esther Gaffney is chairman, 22 persons enrolled. and in the hospital aid and recreation corps, headed by Mrs John Courtright, 75 began training. The motor corps of which Miss Jean Knapp is chairman, has completed their mechanical course and have started their first aid training.

Volunteer Work

Four staff assistants volunteered 26 hours of work during the month; 148 persons gave 2,570 hours in production; three persons of the motor corps worked three hours; one home service maker made three visits totalling 6 hours; and 52 other volunteers worker made three visits totalling services

Mrs. John McNamara reported for the production committee that one shipment of garments for war refugees had been made and that the storing room had been moved from the Pearl Street school to the production headquarters on South Main street.

Mrs. Everett Grigsby, in charge of the Junior Red Cross, announced that the final meeting of the group was held on May 9, at which time the activities of the season were closed and annual reports given.

Miss Lillian Black's report showed that the executive secretary conducted 206 office interviews and made 13 visits. Twelve new service cases and 3 ex-service cases were shown on her report together with service to 34 ex-service man and 22 service men

Marion Navy Club Plans Flag Day Participation

Endorsement of candidates for national officers to be elected at a national reunion and plans to participate in the Flag day parade provided the program at a meeting of the Marion Navy club Monday night in club headquarters.

Some 15 or 20 members plan to march in the Victory parade Sunday. In indorsing the Flag day observance, it was pointed out that the U. S. S. Marion, the club's replica of a battleship, is somewhere in the Youngstown area. The ship is being used for recruiting and so will not be available for use in the parade. Since a majority of the club membership is affiliated with other participating organizations, the club colors will be massed with other veterans groups. An appeal has been made to all ex-sailors or marines who have no other part in the parade to fall in behind the Union Jack.

8 et 40 Meeting Is Held at Edison

A report by Mrs Iva Behner, chapeau, featured a meeting of the 8 et 40 club Monday night with Mrs. Inez Winget of Edison. Mrs Behner spoke on a state meeting held Sunday at Columbus.

Mrs. Ruth Lepp won a special award.

At the next meeting delegates and alternates for the state convention Aug 14 and 15 at Canton will be elected

Hitler Calls Heydrich One of Nazi Martyrs

By The Associated Press

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), June 9 — Adolf Hitler termed Reinhard Heydrich, assassinated gestapo official, "one of our martyrs" today at a state funeral shortly after Heinrich Himmler, head of the secret police declared "it is our holy duty to avenge" the protector of Bohemia and Moravia.

Hitler made an unannounced appearance at the funeral, leaving his headquarters on the Russian front, to confer on the slain No 2 gestapo chief "the highest award of the German order."

(Heydrich died last week after two undetected Czech assailants had bombed his automobile and machinegunned him. Already 234 Czechs have been reported executed in reprisal.)

Utility Pole Sheared Off in Galion Accident

Special to The Star

GALION, June 9 — Live high tension wires were left dangling and burning when a utility pole was sheared off by a car reported by police to have been driven by Andrew Martinez, at 2:40 a. m. Sunday. The accident occurred on the corner of the Bucyrus and North Robinson road and was reported by C. F. King, near-by resident, who saw the burning wires.

When Galion police arrived at the scene they found no trace of the car or the driver. The wires were laying alongside the road and about 200 feet from the pole a broken car door was found and several pieces of radiator grill.

Martinez, apprehended in Galion, is to be held responsible for the damage to the Power company and was ordered by Deputy Sheriff Jacobs to appear at Bucyrus on Wednesday to answer charges of operating a car without a driver's license.

Milking Contest Off To Keep Cows Contented

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, June 9 — The war is responsible for the canceling of a milking contest scheduled for Marysville next Monday by the Marysville Kiwanis club in observance of National Dairy month. Dairy day will be held however with Prof. R. B. Stolts of Ohio State university making an address.

The milking contest was called off not due to the lack of milkmaids but, to the lack of cows although Union county dairymen are producing 10 per cent more milk than a year ago. They want to maintain this record and do not want their cows disturbed in a milking contest. They also were reluctant to spare the time and transportation required in bringing in the cows.

FUNERAL AT ORVILLE

DELAY IN GASOLINE RATIONING PREDICTED

Likely To Be Held Up Pending Nationwide Survey.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 9—Postponement of any nationwide gasoline rationing until a comprehensive survey is made of the country's available scrap rubber was predicted in congressional quarters today.

Senate Democratic Leader Barkley (D-Ky) said he understood that a survey was being contemplated and other informed legislators added that it was likely President Roosevelt would await the results before deciding whether it was necessary to put all private automobiles on short fuel rations.

Barkley told reporters there were all kinds of estimates on the amount of rubber that could be reclaimed from the scrap pile, ranging from the 10,000,000 ton estimate of one big business executive down to a war production board expert's guess that only 700,000 tons could be obtained.

Meanwhile, Price Administrator Leon Henderson reported to a senate committee it was likely that slightly more than 300,000 tons would be reclaimed in 1942. Henderson informed a special committee investigating the gasoline situation, 6,000,000 tire caps probably could be made from this amount.

State of Ohio, Division of Insurance, Columbus, July 1, 1941—The undersigned, Supt. of Ins. of the State of Ohio, hereby certifies that The EUREKA CASUALTY COMPANY, whose principal office is located at Philadelphia, State of Pennsylvania, has complied with the laws of this State applicable to it and is authorized during the current year to transact in this State its appropriate business of insurance. Its financial condition is shown by its annual statement to have been as follows on December 31, 1940: Aggregate amount of available assets, $2,216,094.45; aggregate amount of liabilities (except capital), including re-insurance reserve, $1,566,094.45; net assets, $650,000.00; amount of actual paid-up capital, $500,000.00; surplus, $150,000.00; income for the year, $1,366,084.57; expenditures for the year, $1,117,528.76.
WITNESS my name and the Official Seal of the division, the day and year first above written. John A. Lloyd, Supt. of Ins. of Ohio. (Seal) 120

Toothpaste Tubes Salvaged for Part in U. S. War Effort

If you've been wondering what happens to that old toothpaste tube or shaving cream tube you had to hand over to the druggist before you could buy a new one, here's the answer:

The Tin Salvage Institute of Hillside, N. J., has been authorized by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to receive all used collapsible tin tubes. The institute is requesting retailers to turn their tubes over to their nearest drug wholesaler when they have accumulated five pounds or more. The wholesalers, in turn, ship the tubes to the Tin Salvage Institute.

It's all part of the "Salvage for Victory" program, according to George Alber, chairman of the Marion salvage committee.

RIDGEWAY GIRL LOSES BOTH JOB AND SUITCASE

Richwood Man Charged with Grand Larceny

Special to The Star

KENTON, June 9—Miss Eileen Ehresman, 18, Ridgeway High school graduate this spring, was out of a job but her stolen suitcase and the clothing it held were recovered, Sheriff Randall Clark reported today.

Eileen missed her bus to Marion for a job interview Saturday. She left her bag at Hotel Weaver with the bus clerk and, before she called back that evening for it, someone claimed the suitcase.

After an investigation, Sheriff Clark arrested Albert Baldwin, about 60, of Richwood, who at present is employed on a farm near Mt. Victory. Keith Ehresman, the girl's father, filed grand larceny charges and Baldwin was bound to the grand jury under $100 bond.

The suitcase was recovered with all contents, except some toilet articles, intact. Sheriff Clark said the lock had been broken and the bag otherwise damaged.

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, June 10

THE EMPHASIS may be placed on purely private, social, domestic, cultural and sentimental activities on this day, judging by the lunar transits in influence. All pertaining to private life may be benignly stimulated, promising much pleasure, gratification and sociability. Also there should be success and profit in all phases of business that concern the more personal life, such as drama, entertainment, art and more practical aspects of domestic or social interest.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which the intimate affairs of private life dominate the activities. In social, cultural, domestic and affectional associations there might be much satisfaction, with pleasure and excitement, parties, engagements or marriages. All business enterprises concerning these may move into high grooves and prove lucrative as well as pleasant and sociable. It would be well to sidestep trivial deception, or intrigues or peculiar snares.

A child born on this day should be gifted with many social and cultural abilities, and be refined, sensitive and magnetic. It might make brilliant success in any of the fine arts.

Relatives of Marion Residents Get Diplomas

Grandsons of Mrs. Flora E. Duffey of 233 East Walnut street and nephews of Mrs. Lewis Wills of East Walnut street and Mrs. Leroy Schneider of Forest street, were graduated from high schools last week in Toledo. Mrs. Duffey and Mrs. Wills attended the exercises.

Denver A. Duffey, Jr., was graduated Wednesday night from the Edward Drummond Libbey High school and was awarded the Dr. Charles Williams trophy which is given each year to the outstanding boy in the senior class. There were 357 in the class.

Duffey was president of the student council and played on the Libby all-city state championship football team. Last year he was awarded the only medal given to a junior. He plans to enter Ohio State university next fall and major in architectural work. His father is a Toledo contractor and builder.

On Thursday night Arthur H. Duffey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Duffey, former Marion residents, was graduated from the Macomber Vocational High school in Toledo. He was graduated in electricity. John Haien, personnel and training director for the Chrysler Corp. in Detroit, was the speaker.

Government Calls Women To Aid Tin Can Salvage

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 9—Cleveland housewives did such a commendable job on saving aluminum and waste papper that they have been called on to cooperate with the government in a tin can salvage drive.

Selected as one of 32 areas in nation for tin can saving, Cuyahoga and part of Lake counties were surveyed yesterday by Leslie C. Merrell, deputy chief of the tin salvage section of the war production board.

Housewives were instructed to wash the cans thoroughly and remove the paper; open the bottoms as well as the tops, and fold the flaps inside; flatten the cans by stepping on them lightly, but leave enough space so that they can be seen through; keep them in a dry place away from trash.

AFL SILENT ON CIO PROPOSAL FOR UNITY

Both Bodies Refrain from Impairing Exisiting Relations.

WASHINGTON, June 9—The CIO's counter proposal for achieving organic labor unity has met with an AFL silence that does not mean consent.

Informed sources said AFL officials had rejected a suggestion for a joint meeting of CIO and AFL executive bodies, but probably would refrain from any comment which might impair the existing functional unity inspired by the war effort.

AFL leaders were authoritatively represented as believing such a joint meeting would be impractical. Membership of the combined boards would exceed 50 persons. Moreover, the recent turn of events in the feud between CIO President Philip Murray and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, was viewed on both sides as another deferment of the day when the two big labor organizations would be one again.

LA RUE PLACES FIRST BOY IN F. F. A. STATE GROUP

William Liebold Carries on Busy Program to Win Award.

William Leibold, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Leibold, one of six Marion county youths to receive the state farmer degree of the Future Farmers of America, is the first F. F. A. boy in LaRue High school to receive this award.

Some of the factors which entered into his receiving the award were his realizing $2,384.82 during the first three years of a project farming program, having projects in dairy cattle, swine, sheep, corn, wheat and clover. He also followed supervised practices in home beautification, milk testing, egg records, soil improvement, machinery repair and farm accounts.

In addition to his F. F. A. membership in the Bowling Green grange, he was a member of two state judging teams. He placed first in swine and eleventh in dairy cattle. He has been president of the F. F. A. three years, a member of the glee club, church and Marion County Junior Fair board.

He displayed exhibits in the Marion county fair and the LaRue Community institute. He was chosen the outstanding boy of his class to represent his school at the Buckeye Boys State held at the Ohio State fairgrounds last year. He was selected because of outstanding leadership and good citizenship.

MAN KILLED IN SHOOTING

By The Associated Press

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., June 9—A shooting in front of a downtown theater yesterday brought death to Oscar Williams, 56, a steelworker, and wounded three members of his family. The wounded are Mrs. Williams, their daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Moore, 25, and Paul Irwin, 30, a son-in-law. Coroner Arnold Devon said the shots were fired by Richard Moore, another son-in-law, after a dispute with Irwin.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

We all have a date with VICTORY...
... but first we have a stupendous job to do!

AND LET'S NOT FOOL OURSELVES—it's going to need some real doing.

However, America has what it takes. Proof of this we've seen ... when our forces have gone into action ... when war production started into gear ... when the railroads showed what they could do, transporting men, supplies and materials ... when [illegible]

We needn't tell you that railroad [illegible] usual. Railroads are a vital arm of America's fighting power. Our country looks to our railroads as The Mainline of Freedom. That's the first job of Chesapeake and Ohio Lines ... and every other railroad.

So if you, as a civilian, are asked to restrict your traveling ... to give up a reservation ... or to experience occasional inconvenience or delay ... we know you'll do it cheerfully ... and understandingly. Being patriotically patient is one more way in which you can help keep America's date with Victory!

Woman Near Marion and Waldo Man Wed

Miss Ruth Leffler, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Leffler of south of Marion, and Donald Heisey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Heisey of Waldo, were united in marriage Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock in Trinity Lutheran church south of Marion.

Rev. Edgar W. Schuh read the single ring service.

Miss Myrtle Farley of Lima and Richard Miley of Waldo were the attendants and best man.

The bride wore a navy blue crepe dress with white hat and white accessories, and a shoulder corsage of gardenias. Miss Farley was in a navy blue and white ensemble and wore a shoulder bouquet of roses.

Thirty members of the immediate families were entertained at breakfast at the bride's home. Appointments were in pink and white. A miniature bride and bridegroom topped the three-tiered wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Heisey will return the last of the week from a wedding trip through southern Ohio and will be at home with Mr. Heisey's father, Miss Emma Leffler of route 4 Marion. Mrs. Heisey is a graduate of the Pleasant Township High school. Mr. Heisey, a graduate of the Waldo High school, is employed at the Universal Cooler Corp.

Miss Grace Turner and Mr. Collum Exchange Vows

THE altar of the First church of the Nazarene was banked with palms and pink and white peonies for the wedding Sunday of Miss Grace Turner, daughter of Mrs. Nestle Turner of Herman street, and Thomas Collum, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Collum of Mound street.

Open church was observed for the ceremony which was read immediately following the morning church service.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Helen Cook sang "O Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly."

Mrs. Ruth Persinger, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Miss Mary Sanborn was bridesmaid. Mrs. Persinger was dressed in blue chiffon and carried a bouquet of tea roses. Miss Sanborn wore pink taffeta and also carried tea roses.

John Hoffman was best man and Virgil Klingle was usher.

The bride's costume was of white mousseline-de-sio fashioned with a full skirt, wrist-length sleeves and sweetheart neckline. Her veil was of the high coronet type. She carried a white Testament, a gift of the bridegroom, with pink and white ribbons and lilies of the valley attached, and a lace handkerchief carried by the bridegroom's mother at her wedding.

A reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents for the bridal party and immediate family following the ceremony.

After a short wedding trip the couple will make their home with the bridegroom's parents. For traveling Mrs. Collum wore a costume suit of navy blue with wine accessories. Her corsage was of rosebuds.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Collum are graduates of Harding high school. Mr. Collum is employed at the Universal Cooler.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

A part of the regular armament for a U. S. soldier is a 45-caliber automatic pistol which costs $65. So we need millions of these firearms to properly equip our army on the world's battle fronts.

Purchase of three series E War Bonds at $18.75 each, will more than pay for one of these modern weapons, so every person with an income should invest at least 10 percent in War Bonds every pay day. You can buy them at your Bank, Building & Loan Association, Postoffice and at many retail stores. Buy your share in America and help your county go over its War Bond Quota.

...ns To Assemble for 10-Day Training.

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., June 9—Ohio Wesleyan university is preparing to welcome Saturday some 700 ... and senior high school boys ... nearly every community in ... state who will come here for ... seventh annual Buckeye Boys' State sponsored by the American ... of Ohio.

Among speakers during the 10-day period will be Governor John W. Bricker and Dr. H. J. Burgstahler, president of Ohio Wesleyan.

Until this year Boys State was held at the fairgrounds in Columbus. In recent months the fair grounds were taken over by the war department and the Boys' State site was moved to the Ohio Wesleyan campus.

General staff members and counselors will meet in four groups, state, county, city and judicial, to arrange their work.

Registration will begin Saturday morning in Sanborn hall. Each section will have its own headquarters, the city governments occupying Campus lodge, Hartupee hall and Perkins hall. State governments will have headquarters in Sanborn hall and county governments will be organized in women's dormitories.

The principal night assemblies will take place in Gray chapel, Willis High school auditorium and Selby stadium. Graduation exercises will be held in Gray chapel Tuesday morning, June 23.

Malcolm Talbott of Bucyrus and Robert McCracken and Eugene Peebles of Delaware are among seven Ohio Wesleyan students who will be counselors.

This is John Smith

He is a good mechanic. He has a new job building bombers.

He's a Newcomer

To take his new job, John Smith and his family are moving to a new town where everything is strange to them.

Where will they shop for food and clothing? What laundry will they use? What bakery, dairy, bank, grocery? What department store?

Here is a Newspaper

Automatically John Smith and his family will turn to the newspaper advertisements to help them find the best values from the merchants in their new home town.

They know that those merchants who advertise regularly are pretty sure to have the best values in goods and services. They know that in wartime it is more important than ever to save money—so that they can pay taxes and buy Victory Bonds.

They know that by helping them to save, newspaper advertising is more important to them than ever during the war.

UNFAIR TO LOVE

CHAPTER 24

Letter From Laura

THE next two days were the longest two days Kathleen Vaughan had ever spent. It seemed to her that Wednesday should never arrive—and with it her part in "Goodbye, Honey Child!" But the day came eventually, and Kathleen lost no time jumping into her Uncle Frank's roadster and driving out to Ye Old Barn Drama House.

Fred was rehearsing the company when she arrived. She slipped into a rear seat and watched the activities upon the stage. They fascinated her. And to think, soon she would be up there rehearsing! It was too wonderful for words! After all this time, she was at last to have a part and—

"Does Ruby ave to stand directly in front of me in order to speak her lines?" Paul said angrily.

"One does usually stand in front of a person to speak," said Fred. "Oh, is that so?" said Paul. "Then the audience isn't supposed to see me at all—is that it?"

"I don't think it's particularly important that it does," said Fred. "Not during this scene. After all, what Ruby's saying to you is what's really important."

Kathleen, disturbed by the things said on the stage, and the tones used, felt a moment of dread. But she fought it off. She must remember about Paul's full face and profile—must remember, when she flung herself in his arms, not to cover him up too much. If she remembered that, and a lot of other things, she had learned from watching rehearsals, she ought to get along splendidly.

Presently Fred called it a day. He jumped down from the stage, and mopped his brow. He saw Kathleen, and came over to her.

"Hello!" he said. "How about driving me out to Miss Camilla's? Now that I know when we'll need the things for the Civil war play, I'd like to let her know."

"Right now, you mean—today?" said Kathleen.

"Yes. Have you got a date or something?"

"Oh, no. I came out for my part."

Ruby and Paul joined them.

The Part

"I'm glad we're all together," said Paul. "You see, Kathleen, Ruby and I sort of run things, and since Fred directs, and you're to have a more or less important scene, we ought to have a conference."

Kathleen smiled. "Yes, Paul," she said, trying to keep the excitement out of her voice.

"Everyone says," Paul went on, "that summer theaters make a mess of trying out new plays, and we want to prove them wrong. In 'Goodbye, Honey Child!' we have an opportunity to do this."

Kathleen's eyes widened. "Not really?"

"Yes, really, my child," said Fred, bored. "Get on with what you want to say, Paul. I've got to drive out and see about that furniture I told you about."

"Let's see, where was I?" said Paul.

"You were out to prove everybody wrong about summer theaters," said Ruby.

"Oh, yes, so I was." Paul smiled at Kathleen. "Ruby and I have quite a bit invested in this venture, and if we can put on a play that goes over big, it will mean a lot to us in our profession. We might get worthwhile offers from Broadway producers, and—well, things would pick up for us both."

"Why are you telling Kathleen all this?" Fred cut in. "Get to the point, if there is one."

"I'm trying to impress upon her how important this play really is to us all," said Paul.

"And how magnanimous you've been to permit her to play in it," said Fred. "Is that it?"

"Listen, Fred, would you mind buttoning up your lip for about five minutes?" Paul said.

"Okay! Proceed."

Paul gave his attention to Kathleen. "You see, loveliness," he continued, "what I'm trying to convey, is this: we've all got to working long and hard to make the play a hit."

"Yes, of course!" said Kathleen. "But won't it be sort of hard to do it with only a week's rehearsal? We always rehearsal at least three weeks when we put on a play in Linville."

Paul smiled condescendingly. "There's a slight difference, my dear," he said, "in an amateur production for home-town consumption, and a play that hopes to see the bright lights of Broadway." He pated Kathleen's hand. "You're in for a lot of hard work, Kathleen—but I know you'll make good."

"I'll try hard enough," said Kathleen. "I certainly want to prove you haven't made a mistake."

"I'm sure you will," said Paul. "And now I'll run in and get your part.

Flare-Up

"Nervous?" Fred said to Kathleen.

"A little," admitted Kathleen "I hope you won't be too hard on me."

"He's a fiend when he starts directing," said Ruby. "And don't think he's going to spare you simply because you fed him barbecued pork."

Fred laughed. "Stop frightening the child!" he said.

Kathleen looked at them a moment. "I wish," she said, "that you'd stop talking down to me. I'm not a child really. I assure you I voted last election, believe it or not."

"Sorry," said Ruby. "We didn't mean it that way, did we, Fred?"

"Of course not," said Fred. "But I'm glad Kathleen had her little flare-up. Shows she's got spirit."

Paul returned with the script he'd typed for Kathleen. He handed it to her.

"Here you are, loveliness," he said. "I want you to study as you never studied before."

"I shouldn't think five sides would require that much study," said Ruby.

"I want Kathleen to try inflections, shadings, things like that—so's to know the girl she's to play," said Paul. "You understand, don't you, Kathleen?"

"Yes, Paul," replied Kathleen "Of course I do."

"And now," said Fred, "would it be all right with you if Kathleen drove me out to Miss Camilla's?"

She said goodbye to Paul and Ruby then, and went out with Fred.

"I wish," said Ruby, when she and Paul were alone, "that she was planning her wedding instead of an appearance on the stage."

"Why?" said Paul.

"Because I feel she's cut out for a wedding, and not acting."

"Perhaps," agreed Paul. "But don't forget that permitting her to appear with us means business. Linville people will come in flocks—something they haven't been doing so far."

"I see," said Ruby. "So that's whats motivated you—business."

"Partly," said Paul. He smiled in the way Ruby especially loathed seeing him smile. "Besides, she's good company. I like her. I like her a lot."

Ruby watched him a moment, and then she said, "Was the letter you were expecting from Laura?"

Paul caught his breath. "That," he said, "is really none of your business, my dear Ruby."

"Of course it isn't. Only I didn't want anything to happen to upset matters—as they did last summer. Remember the little stage-struck girl in Westport—and you—and Laura?"

"My memory is quite all right," said Paul. "But that was last summer."

Five Seek Permits for Trailer Camps

The Marion county health department has received five applications for permits to establish new trailer camps near Marion, Eugene Willey, county sanitarian, said today.

Some of the projects were already started when the recent material freezing orders were issued and consequently are not completed. However, Mr. Willey said the applicants have submitted their requests for priorities on plumbing supplies and other materials necessary to complete camp facilities, and work will be resumed as soon as federal approval is received.

Under the county health regulations, trailer camp permits may not be issued until all sanitary conditions specified are met.

TO BROADCAST THURSDAY

Lloyd Schiller of Marion will speak over radio station WMRN Thursday night at 8:15 as a representative of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in another of the series of "Speak Up for Democracy" broadcasts being conducted throughout the nation. Mr. Schiller served with the 140th Field Artillery in France. His talk will be one in a monthly series on Americanism.

The Next Seven Months of War

THE six months of United States participation in the war now being reviewed were inconclusive. Infinitely more important are the seven months to come that will be reviewed at the end of 1942. Either the United States will develop a vastly greater offensive before Jan. 1, 1943, than they have developed so far or they probably will have lost the war.

There are definitive limits to what can be done in 1943 and 1944 and 1945 to make up for the reverses of 1939, 1940, 1941 and 1942—limits that may not exist in the imaginations of United Nations strategists but do exist in the realities of war-making. When it is considered that Germany, having won most of the victories, is evidently hard-pressed to keep going in its third year of war what is to be expected of those that have sustained most of the defeats when their resources begin to dwindle?

Obviously, the grand strategy of Hitler and his Italian and Japanese co-conspirators calls for winning the war before the end of 1942. By his own admission, Hitler expected the European situation to be stabilized in his favor long before this: there have been delays, chiefly that encountered in Russia, that he didn't foresee. If by the end of this year Russia's military power could be crushed, the Caucasus oil fields gained, China blasted out of the war as far as organized resistance is concerned, the Mediterranean closed to the British, the blockade of the United States tightened and this country's forces immobilized at home by possibility of large-scale attack, the victory certainly would belong to the Axis powers.

Of course, no one in this country believes these things will happen. Confidence runs high. It is expected that Russia and China will hold, that the German summer drive will be a failure when it comes, that Italy will drop out of the war and leave Germany vulnerable on the south, that the blockade of the Atlantic coast will be broken, that Japanese encroachment on the American zone of security will be checked and that things will grow steadily worse for the Axis. These are not unreasonable expectations, but it must be plain even to optimists that unless they are backed up with measures to check the enemy's advances this year—not next year or the next year—they are wide open to challenge. The record of the next seven months will be, in all probability, the record of the critical events that determined the outcome of World war II.

No More Pearl Harbors

IT SEEMS probable in view of what happened to their attack on Midway that the Japanese may have underestimated American morale in this war. Perhaps they took Pearl Harbor too literally.

There haven't been any more Pearl Harbors since Dec. 7. It seems likely there won't be any more, either. That may be hard for the Japanese to understand—as hard as it has been for Americans to understand that Japan no longer is the fuddy-duddy comic opera outfit many of them honestly thought it was before war began. A few more events like the successful bombing of their cities and the repulse at Midway should cause the Japanese to revise their opinion of American fighting ability as radically as American opinion of their ability changed after Dec. 7.

Part of the art of war is ability to make an accurate estimate of the enemy's fighting strength. In every one of its various wars with a foreign power, United States military power has been underestimated. This has not been a belligerent country; war has not preoccupied it, except on the few occasions when it was forced to take up the sword to secure its interests. In World war I, Germany made the fatal mistake of taking the United States too lightly. In this war, of course, it was Germany's assumption that the United States wouldn't be able to make up its mind to fight.

It is a genuine pleasure to be furnished evidence like that from Midway indicating continuous development of American fighting skill. No one was caught by surprise, except the Japanese, who apparently took it for granted that another Pearl Harbor was in store.

Columnist Answers Clergyman's Letter About Keeping U. S. Armed After War.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 9—A clergyman in Massachusetts has written me:

"I read your column regularly with interest and mostly with profit. I am, however, deeply discouraged with your remarks in the international situation after the war.

"It is positively immoral to believe that we must remain definitely in a state of armed vigilance, and that the world must remain under the dominance of the rich and powerful. You despair of leagues of nations to preserve world order, claiming that they are the dreams of idealists and cannot be achieved.

"But you completely fail to appreciate that such a condition has already been achieved in large areas of our life—witness the civil community and the national state. Only in the international order do we have the chaos and anarchy which you wish to preserve. I am sorry to see you sponsor any such idea."

Dear Dr. ——:

You did not note the limitations in my column. I did not advocate armed violence, but armed peace. I did not want American conquest of the world or the creation of an American empire, but only security against the violence of others.

Yes, we have had, as you say, for 6,000 years in the international order something approximating chaos and anarchy in varying degrees, but I do not wish to preserve that.

I want to stop it by making our own Christian country with its ambitions limited to its own shores, with no appetite for conquest anywhere else in the world, a supremely self-sufficient military authority and a powerful example for good. I want armed Christianity and armed Americanism, as against passive Christianity and a weak America.

We have tried it your way many times, and, as your letter concedes, it never has worked. Just trace the history of our efforts with Japan since the disarmament conference of 1922, and you will see precisely what I mean.

I came to Washington for that historic conference. It initiated me as a reporter here. I then held the same views as you, even more strongly.

I was impressed deeply with the sincerity of Charles Evans Hughes, then secretary of state, who set an example to the world by scrapping our ships and thus causing other nations to adopt our policies of disarmament and good fellowship. It seemed silly for all of us foolishly to support great fleets.

Now I know that what Japan is doing to us was made possible only by our own leadership and love for disarmament, which began in that conference.

Japan acquired islands in the Pacific under the Versailles treaty, (Marshalls, Gilberts and Mariannas) which were called "mandates," a term which assumes a facetiousness now in view of the use to which these islands have been put. She promised not to fortify them, but did. They are the air bases and the sea bases which made posible the Japanese program of aggression, the fall of Singapore and the Philippines and the threatening of Australia.

We gave more islands to her in our disarmament treaty along with a 3 to 5 ratio in naval craft (they would have 3 capital warships to our 5 capital ships) as a gesture of friendliness and good will to inspire the bargain. Japan did not then have 3 ships to our 5.

But under the promise she made that we were all going to live peacefully thereafter, we held our fleet at the index of 5. We stopped building while she built up to a relationship of 3 to 5 with us.

In other words, by our own disarmament leadership, she held our fleet static, so that she could build up to three-fifths of what we had. When she acquired that ratio in a few years, she then openly broke the treaty. She continued on building until she acquired equality with us if not actual supremacy, and started the war at the time of her choosing by a treacherous attack.

I think you will agree if you look at this matter fairly that our own disarmament policy is at fault and is the root cause of our present predicament in the far east which has cost so many lives and will cost so many more.

If we had not stopped building our navy for 15 years, if we had not scrapped ships while others scrapped only blueprints, if we had not been lulled into a false sense of security and trust, we would never have allowed Japan the opportunity to make her far eastern conflict possible.

Why we even shipped scrap iron and oil to her up to a few months before the break of her treacherous attack at Pearl Harbor, so great were our hopes of peace by treaties and of justice by example. Shells made of that scrap iron are now killing our boys. That oil is being used against us.

I have heard it said that the Sixth avenue elevated in New York, sold to our junk dealers, finally reached Japan and is now being fired back at us in the form of shells and bombs. It could be, under our policy.

Is not the lesson of all this too plain and too fresh to be forgotten? Can we now say these lessons which are multiplied by all the history of the human race back to the beginning of time should be swept aside and we should do it all over again with more treaties and more disarmament?

Never in the history of the world has a nation lived up to a treaty which was against its interests. Let us not deceive ourselves about that or believe that even we are superior men in that respect.

You and I would be the first to advocate breaking of a treaty by the United States if it was against what we deemed the best interests of our country. How, then, can we be foolish enough to put our trust in the treaties of others?

Now, don't misunderstand me. I say make all the sideline treaties you want and do whatever else extraneous that you want, but first get yourself the biggest army and navy in the world, and keep it.

Don't sell it out. Don't scrap it. Don't try to be a defenseless big brother to the world.

I say trust only your own power if you want peace and security.

Paul Mallon.

Korea — Japan's Exhibit A

A Bulletin from National Geographic Society.

KOREA, first Japanese colony on the continent, is Exhibit A of what might be in store for Asia under Tokyo's projected "co-prosperity sphere." Under the "Asia for Asiatics" program, unwilling Korea finds that its cotton, iron, coal, and graphite feed the Japanese war machine; its river power helps to turn Japanese wheels; its gold mines help to pay Japan's bills. Japanese police have forbidden Korean assembly; have suppressed free speech. The Korean (Japanese) government in 1939-40 spent some $300,000 to stamp out what the semi-official Japan year book termed "thought crime"—mental resistance.

The Japanese have suppressed all American enterprise in Korea. Americans built Korea's first trolley line and first railroad; they developed the gold fields. All have been frozen out. Only a few American missionaries remain. Korea gave arts and Buddhist culture to Japan. Koreans developed movable metal type 50 years before Gutenberg printed the Bible. They devised a phonetic alphabet modeled on Tibetan Sanskrit. More than three centuries ago Koreans invented car-propelled ironclads and destroyed a Japanese fleet.

As a reaction to Japanese interference, Korea shut herself up and became the "hermit kingdom." France and the United States sent punitive expeditions to avenge slain nationals. But Japan—in 1876—was first to force Korea to open her ports to trade. Japan fought two wars—with China in 1894, with Russia in 1904 — to assure mastery over Korea. Japan established a protectorate in 1905, annexed Korea in 1910. Koreans—particularly exiles—have been fighting the Japanese ever since. In 1919, 11,000 Koreans were flogged for an unarmed independence demonstration at Seoul.

Today a million Korean exiles in China have raised an estimated 35,000 fighting men to help the United Nations. Their 23-year-old provisional regime—the war's oldest provisional government — is at Chungking. Twenty-five thousand Korean guerrillas harass the conqueror in Manchukuo. In Washington, Koreans seek lend-lease aid; their Liberty conference has made plans to "build a bonfire in Japan's back yard."

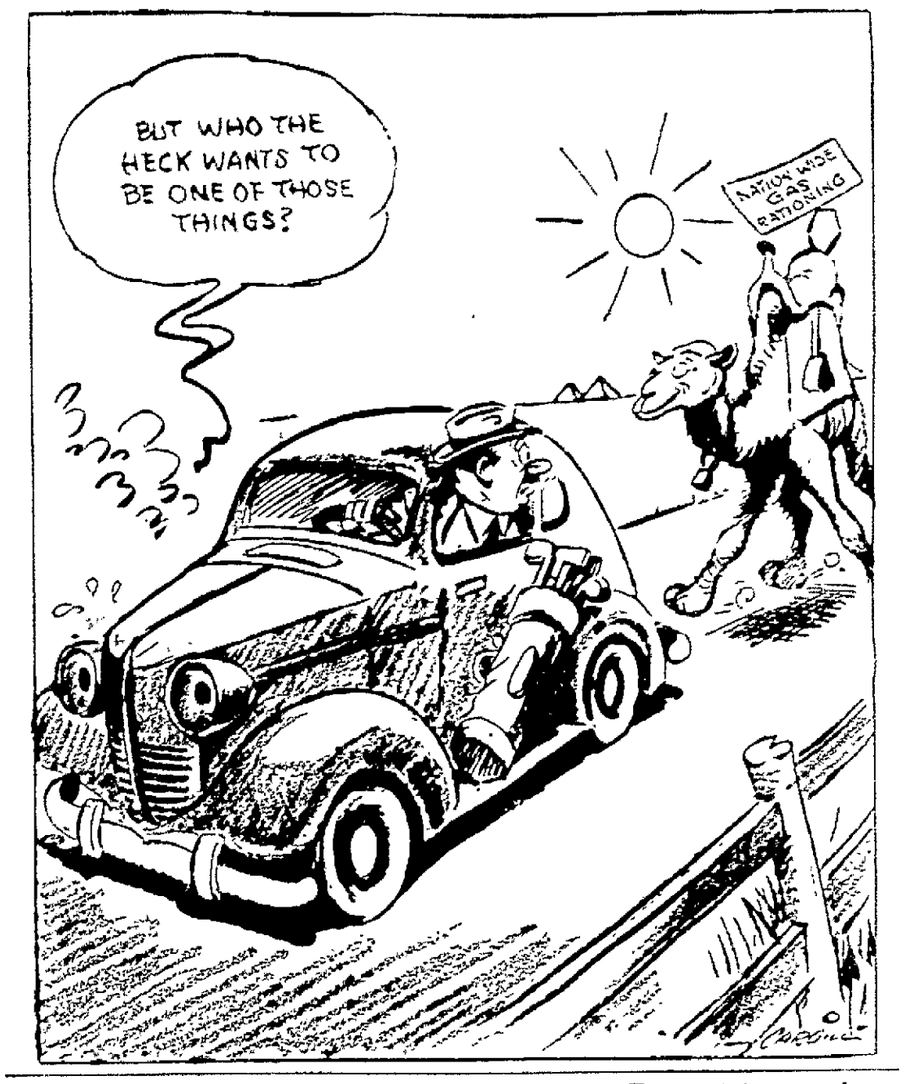

THE 12-hour-a-day Japanese complain of Korean "laziness." Koreans contend that the occupiers leave them no motive for working hard. The Japanese cite the six-man spade, a shovel-with-rooes device by which six do the work of one. The Korean works 100 days a year on his farm while the Japanese toils 250, according to Japanese statistics. While Japanese farm wives toil in the fields, Korean women spend their time laundering white clothes, the invaders say. White, for centuries the color of mourning, became standard when so many Korean emperors died in quick succession that the people decided it would be thrifty to wear mourning constantly.

During the severe winters, the people are inclined to shut themselves in their one-story, plaster-wall, thatch-roof homes. These houses are the original hot-air furnaces. Hot air and smoke from a stove outside a wall are drawn through flues beneath the stone floor to a chimney in the opposite wall. The floor makes a warm bed on a below-zero night. This heating system has been called the most comfortable and economical known.

Korea is a peninsula, Florida-shaped, pointing daggerlike at Japan, 125 miles to the southeast. To the west is the Yellow sea, where tides rise more than 30 feet.

Japan's main port of entry is Fusan, in the southeast. Most modern port is Rashin, five years ago a fishing village. There Japan has lavished millions to develop a rival to Russia's Vladivostok, 100 miles to the northeast. Seoul, which the Japanese call Keijo, is 24 miles up the Han river from Jinsen, its port. Largest city in Korea, Seoul has a population of about 400,000. Its crumbling palaces and city walls attest Korea's ancient glories.

TWO WEEKS BETWEEN DRINKS!

Today and Tomorrow

U. S. Policy Toward Hitler's Vassal States Takes Form; Finland Presents Problem.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

DURING this week's great military actions which have extended from Cologne to Midway, we have made a diplomatic move which may have seemed perfunctory and of little practical interest. Six months after Bulgaria, Hungary, and Rumania declared war upon us, we have recognized that we are at war with them. Yet our action is much more important than at first it may seem. It is important because it demonstrates that in his Memorial Day speech Mr. Welles was not making Utopian promises for the distant future but was announcing a policy which is very seriously meant.

What difference does it make whether we are or are not at war with these three states? It means primarily that not only for the war but for the period of the armistice and for the peace settlement which will follow we are now the allies of Greece and of Yugoslavia. Their enemies are now our enemies, and the words "United Nations" have very definite practical consequences.

For, as the state department has announced through the Welles speech, we intend with the other victorious nations to disarm the nations which "may threaten aggression outside of their frontiers"; we intend to police the Armistice; and we mean to regard the United Nations "as the nucleus of a world organization" to determine the final terms of peace.

The declarations of war with the three small Axis satellites followed immediately after Mr. Welles had announced this American policy. Therefore, Greece and Yugoslavia are now assured that their position at the Armistice will be quite different from that of their neighbors who have gone with Hitler. Greece and Yugoslavia will take part in enforcing the Armistice, and they will belong to the original nucleus of the world organization which will write the peace. Hungary, Bulgaria and Rumania will be disarmed to the degree deemed necessary to prohibit any renewal of aggression on their part, and they will have to prove that they can be trusted in a world of free nations.

Principle Adopted

Thus we have adopted the principle that the nations which fight our enemies are the nations we must work with from now on. We have tried the opposite principle: we have wished to believe that if we dealt with Hitler, his dupes and his Quislings did not matter. Hitler is still obviously the great enemy in Europe. But the dupes and the Quislings are an essential part of his power, and there is an immense practical difference now and for the future between nations like the Greeks and the Yugoslavs who have staked everything to resist him and nations like Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania which work with him.

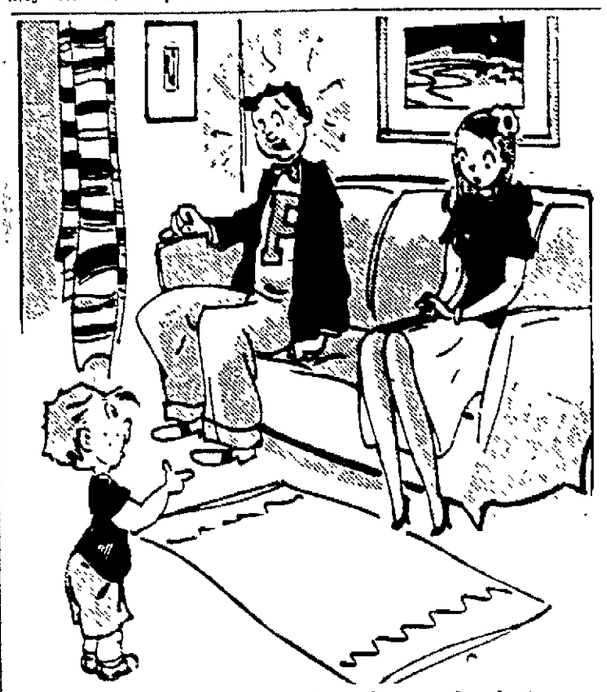

The Greeks and the Yugoslavs have fought for freedom. The others have not. Can there be any doubt that the Greeks and the Yugoslavs can, therefore, be relied upon more surely in the cause of freedom? Can there be any doubt that the others cannot be relied upon until they have proved by what they do to liberate themselves from Hitler and to purge themselves internally that they can be relied upon? Is this not sound sense? If we cannot make peace with Hitler and Mussolini, how can we make peace with their agents?

We come, thereby, to the tragic case of Finland, and we are bound to be governed by the fact that the Finnish government is in a position to strike a blow which, if it is successful might prolong the war indefinitely and make it extremely difficult for us to defeat Japan and Germany. The Finns are on the flank of our main supply line to Russia. If they do anything to cut that line, they will do us the gravest injury in the Pacific as well as in the European theater of war.

Finnish Position

We should in sheer self-defense have to regard any action of this kind by Finland as an act of war against the United States, and there ought to be no doubt as to

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Friday, June 9, 1922.

President Harding gave the address dedicating a monument commemorating the battle of Princeton at Princeton, N. J. In his speech, which was brief, he declared Americans could do no better than to reconsecrate themselves to the ideals for which Washington fought.

Chairman of the various centenial committees who made up the program committee met with J. W. Jacoby, chairman of the centennial executive committee, at his office on West Center street. It was decided to incorporate in the souvenir program a description of relics and heirlooms that were to be on display at various places throughout the city. This feature of the program was put in charge of F. A. Stengel. A committee consisting of J. W. Jacoby, James A. Knapp, C. C. Fisher, John H. Bartram, George B. Christian, J. E. Messenger and E. C. Call was appointed to cooperate with C. C. Fisher in preparing the souvenir program.

The feature picture at the Grand theater was "Bought and Paid For," starring Jack Holt and Agnes Ayers, and heading the bill at the Marion was "The Heart of the North," starring Roy Stewart and Louise Lovely.

THE CITY of San Francisco must the boys call a "good" gambling I may judge from the evidence of t lative spirit existing among its citi is being submitted to me by readers.

I have before me slips indicating numbers game flourishes in the vi the Golden Gate and that Chinese lo vails, though to what extent in do cents, I am, of course, unable to s numbers game wherever it operates a cheap proposition, though the handle in a city the size of San could be large.

It was vastly overestimated in N in my opinion, when it was in the headlines through the Hines trial. To was inclined to depict it in enorm when he was prosecuting the police and he may have been right, though to me that actual proof disclosed operation per year as considerably less millions of dollars the headlines sugge

The numbers game is strictly a nic dimes thing which in New York had est vogue in Harlem. It takes a lot change like that to make up a million of the operation in the past tense, the told that it still goes on throughou town. There is always someone arou to take a chance to snare a wrong del

THE VERY cheapest form of the game anywhere is the boleta of other southern cities. It is confined the Negro population. The drawing is matter. A small cotton cloth sack of wooden pellets is tossed from hand among a crowd until at the command the person then in possession of clutches one pellet, which is then cut and all, and is the winning number.

Oddly enough, there seems less chicanery in a boleta "throwing" tha other form of the numbers game, would not vouch for the honesty of a of this nature. It has been my observ the best any player of an illegal ente hope to get is the worst of it. The very argues against a square rattle for th

The Chinese lottery of San Franci to be somehow based on the day month. The slips before me are in Chinese with certain calendar numeral out and I assume these were the win bers. However, there is nothing on th inform me as to the method of operati the prize moneys seem to be $15,000 a and I gather that the drawing is monthl

I IMAGINE that the documents, q terious to me, would be as clear to any citizen of San Francisco who Chinese lottery, and the printing in guages suggests that the lottery is n to just the children of the Flowery As for the San Francisco numbers ga appears to be apportioned to unn "clubs," one "club" declares a mem 40,569.

M. E. PASTORAL POSTS LISTED

Only One Transfer from Marion County Announced at Annual Meeting.

Transfer of Rev. Dale M. Lumbert from the Green Camp church to the Newtown church in the Wilmington district was the only change made among Marion city and county ministers of the Ohio Methodist conference when new pastoral assignments were announced last night at the closing session of the annual meeting in Springfield, according to an Associated Press report.

Rev. T. A. Ballinger was assigned to the Green Camp church.

Other new assignments in the Marion area are Rev. J. E. Turner to Forest, Rev. R. M. Dibble to Upper Sandusky, Rev. J. Leslie Kunze as supply pastor at Roundhead, Rev. M. E. Tinsler to Ada, Rev. Fred Ross to the Magnetic Springs, Pharisburg church, Rev. Hugh Liggett to the Milford Center church, and Rev. S. C. Everson to Delaware St. Paul's church.

Dr. R. O. McClure was reappointed superintendent of the Lima district.

The Marseilles and McCutchenville churches in the Toledo district were left open for supply pastors.

Rev. L. J. Poe, formerly at Agosta, was assigned to the Wayne Avenue church in Cincinnati, and Rev. C. W. Black, also formerly of Agosta, was assigned to the Greenville church. Rev. Howard Mumma, formerly at Pharisburg, was assigned to the Columbus Shepard church.

At the closing session the Methodists resolved to serve their nation "in every way that does not violate our permanent loyalty to God."

They said, "As Christians, we can not do other than maintain charity and good will when confronted by differences of opinion growing out of the perplexities of trying to follow Christ in a world at war."

The conference a year ago decided that "agencies of the church shall not be used in preparation for war but for promulgation of peace."

FOUR INJURED IN ACCIDENTS

Mt. Gilead Man in "Fair" Condition at Hospital After Auto Mishap.

Four traffic accidents, two involving injuries to four persons, were reported today by city police and state highway patrolmen.

One man was taken to City hospital, where his condition was reported as "fair" this morning, another was taken to the hospital and released after treatment and a third was slightly injured when two cars crashed head-on about 5 a. m. today on route 95, just east of the city corporation limits, patrolmen stated.

Horace D. Vail of Mt. Gilead, whose condition is reported to be fair, suffered lacerations and contusions, when a coach which he was driving west on the highway collided with a car owned by Yellow Cab Taxi Co. of 178 East Center street and driven by Robert Hazlett of 402 Pies avenue. The cab was reported going east, preparatory to making a left turn into Clover avenue.

Taxi Overturned

When the taxi turned over on the road, Hazlett suffered eye and knee lacerations. He was taken to the hospital and later released.

Riley W. Wilson of 1128 East Church street, a passenger in the cab, was reported suffering lip contusions, and left knee injuries. He was not, however, taken to the hospital. The others were removed to the hospital in a Boyd-Uncapher ambulance.

Front ends of the two autos were reported badly damaged.

Katherine Ellen Phillips, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Phillips of 701 Wood street, was reported in "fair" condition at the hospital today after being injured in a mishap about 5:41 p. m. Monday at Wood street and Uncapher avenue.

The girl was reported by police to have been riding a bicycle at the time and was struck by a U-Turn on Wood street. She was struck by a coach driven by Malcom L. Kohler of 433 Uncapher avenue. The car was described as was making a right turn on Wood street at about five miles an hour.

Taken to Hospital

The girl was taken to the hospital in a Boyd-Uncapher ambulance. The front wheel and fork of her bicycle were reported damaged. The auto was not damaged, police said.

Slight damage resulted when a Ford sedan operated by George H. Taylor of Johnsville, O., figured in an angle collision with a trailer parked at North Main and George streets Monday morning. The trailer was reported going north and was making a right turn.

Sedans driven by Edgar C. Baker of Newark, O., and Jesse E. Webb of 139 Jefferson street collided Monday afternoon on State street between Center and Church streets. Baker's car was reported backing from a curb and the Webb auto was described as going south on State street.

Motorist Fined $100, Loses Driving Rights

Many of the parts that go into Uncle Sam's sturdy jeeps are heat treated by gas. Exacting heating processes are essential to the high standard of mobile war performance which these units have set. This is part of the job that gas is doing on America's industrial front.
And, on the home front, in the Jenkins' home and millions more—gas is doing another big job. The high vitamin content of green vegetables and other foods must be preserved by proper cooking methods. Modern gas service is the housewife's first "aide-de-kitchen" in this vital nutrition program.
Today, Uncle Sam needs well-made war materials—and well-nourished men and women. Your gas service is contributing vitally to this two-fold need — doing double duty with a single purpose, to help win the war.

Paul Derringer Hurls No-Hit Ball for Eight Innings As Reds Win, 3-

Weakens in Ninth To Allow Three Hits; Tribe Loses to Yanks, 11-10.

By The Associated Press

[illegible]

Sweet Series

[illegible]

It was Derringer's second success of the season

There was only one other game scheduled in the major leagues yesterday and in this the New York Yankees squeezed out an 11-10 decision over Cleveland when Relief Pitcher Tom Ferrick made a wild throw on Joe Gordon's sacrifice bunt with two on base in the 11th inning

Six Pitchers Used

It was a suitable payoff for a game in which each club used three pitchers and the world champions made 16 hits and three errors to Cleveland's 15 hits and two miscues

Ken Keltner made five hits and Jeff Heath produced his seventh and eighth home runs of the year and singled home the tying run in the ninth inning after Kelter had tripled

Cleveland could have recaptured second place in the American league from the idle Detroit Tigers by winning but the Yankees made it their 26th triumph in 31. As a sideline, Joe Gordon stretched his hitting streak to 25 games and Buddy Hassett extended his to 20.

One-Minute Sports Page—Report kicking around Detroit is that Notre Dame will play a big game, maybe against Georgia Tech, in Briggs Stadium. The N.C.A.A. mile championship at Lincoln, Neb., next Saturday lost a lot when Dartmouth's Bon Burnham, who beat MacMitchell last week, decided not to go west. Bill before the Louisiana legislature will authorize the fair grounds track to prosecute bookies operating during the winter racing season.

Capping the Climax—They tell more stories than you can believe about happenings in the Kitty league, but until further notice this should stand as the error record, the other night John Pavoris, Fulton's rookie third baseman fielded a slow grounder. As he straightened up, his cap flew off and he threw the ball right into the cap.. Together they sailed over the pitcher's head, grazed the umpire and landed halfway between the mound and first base. The base runners were too surprised to run and the first baseman didn't know where to look. Pavoris finally dashed across and retrieved the pill himself, but not until two runs had scored.

Coca-Cola and Moose Lodge Share Commercial League Softball Lead

Coca-Cola and Moose lodge [illegible] in the Commercial league softball race as a result of games played last night. Coca-Cola won an easy 4-1 decision over the Smith Clothing team for its fourth straight victory at Lincoln park. Weiss allowed the Smith batters only five hits, while his mates clubbed Kenny Sampson for six safeties. It was the fourth loss in a row for the Smith nine.

Outhitting DeMolay 10 to 4, the Moose lodge continued to share the league leadership on an 11-1 victory at Presidents Field. Marshall tripled in the fifth inning along with Terzo. Marshall added a mighty four-base blast in the seventh inning. Carroll Spain collected the only extra-base hit off Greenland and Caprino, a three-bagger in the third inning

The Harding Senior Hi-Y team posted its first victory of the season at Garfield park at the expense of the War Department team of the Scioto Ordnance Plant. The Hi-Y team outhit the War Department 10-3 in racking up a 12-9 verdict. Howard Neal's three-base blast in the third inning with two mates on was the highlight.

D. Hamilton of the Hunkin-Conkey No. 2 narrowly missed a perfect game at the Marion Steam Shovel diamond on Uncapher avenue in limiting the Waldo Independents to two hits in scoring a 12-2 victory. A total of 12 miscues was recorded, seven of them against the losers. The win elevated Hunkin-Conkey to a .500 average on one win in two starts

Reiser and Phelps in Close Race for Batting Honors

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 9 — The American league has been having a two-man race for batting honors almost since the opening of the season and now the National league is getting some of the same

Pete Reiser, last year's batting champion in the senior circuit, has been sprinting during the last week and today had a lusty .365 average, close on the heels of Gordon Phelps, Pittsburgh catcher.

Phelps has been out of action because of a spiked heel and made his first appearances in the Pirate lineup in more than a week on Sunday. He was called on to pinchhit twice and made one hit to inflate his average to .375.

Joe Gordon of the New York Yankees, riding the crest of a 25-game batting streak, still is the American league leader with .388, thirteen points ahead of Bobby Doerr of the Boston Red Sox.

BOBBY JONES READY FOR COMEBACK TRY

Ends 12 Years of Retirement To Enter Chicago Event.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 9—Immortal Bobby Jones after 12 years of virtual retirement, will attempt to leap once into golfing glory in the Hale America National Open next week.

Playing some of his best golf in a decade as indicated by a parslashing 34 holes last week-end, he's coming here to win, although he won't admit it

New golfing greats have remade the headlines since stocky Bobby collected his famous grand slam—winning the British Amateur, British Open, U. S. Open, and U. S. Amateur in succession —and announced his retirement. The Augusta Masters has been his lone annual return to competition

The Hale America at Ridgemoor becomes the first tournament outside the Masters that Bobby has entered, and there is much speculation that he will do better in it than he ever has done in the Masters

At his home in Atlanta last night, Jones said he would not have entered the Hale America if it weren't for patriotic considerations

"I felt it my duty to accept the U.S.G.A.'s invitation and wanted to aid in raising money for the USO and navy relief."

Lou Finney Shakes Off Batting Slump as Red Sox Climb

By The Associated Press

BOSTON — Give Lou Finney half a chance and the Boston Red Sox handy man will shoot your job right out from under you.

The soft-spoken Alabaman is at it again and Pete Fox is the latest to discover that he's probably due for a session of bench riding

Lou kept even as great a star as Dom DiMaggio on the bench for half a season two years ago and Fox, sidelined with a toe injured in batting practice last Thursday can only hope the Finney bat doesn't catch fire once again

As a matter of fact, though, the bat is starting to blaze. Lou has been batting an anemic .179 but don't think his batting figure won't climb for Lou's a hittin' fool when he's in there every day.

He hadn't been seeing much service until the Fox injury enabled him to break into a regular berth

He signalized his entry into the lineup last week by having a perfect day at bat. Next day he drove in three Boston runs in a 4-3 triumph over the Chicago White Sox. Two days later he broke up the nightcap of a double-header, driving in the winning run

It certainly looks as though Lou is on the way once again and even Pete Fox will be glad about that for there's no more popular guy on the Red Sox squad. He's a ball player's ball player, ready to step into the breach wherever he's needed, and playing the game up to the hilt every day.

Home Clubs Defeated in Mid-Atlantic Loop

SPRINGFIELD, O., June 9—Not a home club had things to its own liking around the Mid-Atlantic circuit yesterday, but nowhere did the locals fare so badly as here

The Cardinals, submerged in the cellar, were pummeled by Dayton's 14-hit attack and dropped their series opener 9 to 1.

Canton took a firm grip on fourth place with a 3 to 2 victory at Erie.

Zanesville stepped a bit closer to the league-leading Charleston Senators with a 4 to 1 victory in the West Virginia city.

Games today: Canton at Erie, Dayton at Springfield and Zanesville at Charleston.

25 IN A ROW

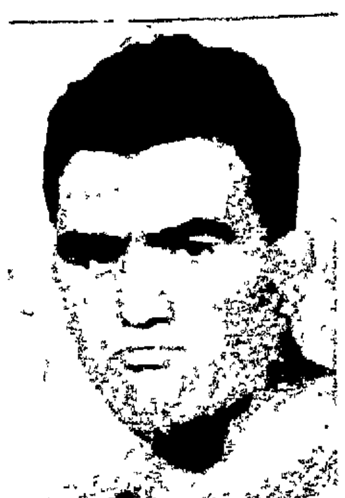

KINGSTON, R. I. — Fred Tootell's Rhode Island State track team completed its season by running its string to 25 straight dual meet victories over a period of six years.

the consequences. If Finland goes to war with the United States, she will fall into the same class as Hungary, Bulgaria and Rumania when it comes to the Armistice and to the making of the peace. She will have struck such a deadly blow at Russia, and through Russia at us, that it will be impossible for us to argue that Finland must not also be disarmed and demilitarized. We cannot, therefore, afford to let the Finnish people have the illusion that no matter what they allow their government to do to us, they can count on our protection. They cannot count on it if by their deeds they put us in a position where countless Americans, Russians, Britons, Chinese must die because they have yielded to Hitler. The dilemma of the Finns is tragic and it is hard. But the cause of freedom in the world is paramount.

The United Nations are a grand alliance which has come into being, not by virtue of a blueprint, but in the fires of war. The alliance was not formed as a diplomatic combination. It consists of the nations which, when attacked, chose to resist rather than to surrender. The common cause rests, therefore, not upon the plans or pledges of statesmen but on the vital interest of each people. That is why this alliance must grow firmer and closer as the war moves towards its distant climax.

This is now the officially declared American policy. We can take pride and comfort in the accumulating evidence that the President and the state department are coming by considered steps to so form a program of action in the execution of this policy.

STOCKS HIGHER FOR SIXTH DAY

U. S. War Successes Appear To Be the Main Factor in Advance.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 9—For the sixth consecutive session today the stock market continued to point selectively higher.

Hopes that growing United Nations successes would bring the end of the world conflict appreciably closer still were the main bullish stimulants, brokers said.

Among stocks General Motors edged to a new 1942 top along with a number of others. Early gainers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Du Pont and Texas Co.

Eastman Kodak dipped after yesterday's run-up of 7¼ points. Hesitant were Westinghouse, and J. I. Case.

Trend Diagnosticians discovered nothing particularly encouraging in reports of persistant flattening out of retail spending throughout the country. The federal reserve bank of New York estimated last week's department store sales in the metropolis and Brooklyn fell 3 per cent below the comparable 1941 week.

GRAINS HOLD FIRM AT LOWER LEVELS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 9 — While most grains and soybeans maintained a fairly firm undertone, price levels near the close were well below the best levels of the session today.

Wheat and rye, which at times showed net gains for the day of around a cent a bushel, fluctuated nervously. Corn was relatively weaker, frequently dipping below the previous closing levels.

On the dips, attributed to a light volume of trade and frequent drying up of buying interest, rye sagged to new low marks for the season. In yesterday's session rye lost 3 cents.

U. S. PROVIDES DEPENDENT PAY

Congress Acts on Service Wage; Family Aid Now Near Passage.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 9—Dependents of army and navy men had congressional assurance today their financial needs would be taken care of by Uncle Sam.

House passage late yesterday of legislation embodying the general provisions of a bill previously approved by the senate put both branches overwhelmingly on record in favor of the state scale of payments leaving extraneous provisions to be worked out by a joint conference committee.

At the same time the senate agreed 55 to 20, to raise the minimum monthly pay of service men to $50, effective as of June 1.

On the dependents' allowance bill, the only disagreement between senate and house was over a senate provision under which the definition of dependency for draft purposes would have been broadened to include factors other than actual financial dependency such as the family relationship.

Members of the house military committee told the house the scale of payments purposely was kept moderate to prevent local draft boards from getting the impression they could draft family heads indiscriminately.

The senate calls for a $22 deduction from the service man's pay, to which a federal allowance of $28 would be added for a wife, $12 for the first child and $10 for each additional child.

In all cases involving "Class A" dependents—wife or children, or both—the deductions and allowances are mandatory.

Allotments and allowances for "Class B" dependents such as parents, brothers and sisters, provide for a $22 deduction from the service man's pay and federal additions of $15 for one parent, $25 for two parents and $5 for each dependent brother or sister. These deductions are optional with the service man.

In cases where a man has dependents of both classes and elects to contribute to both, his total deductions would be $27 monthly, of which $22 would go to the "Class A" group, and $5 to those in "Class B." The federal payments would remain unchanged.

Affected by the bill are dependents of men up to and including the rank of line sergeant in the army and third class petty officer in the navy.

The senate added its stamp of approval in a 58-to-20 vote instructing its members of a joint conference committee to accept House amendments to the military pay adjustment bill which would give army buck privates and navy apprentice seamen $50 monthly.

In the same action, the senate voted to raise the pay of first class privates and second class seamen to $51 and to make all of the increases for ranks up to and including second lieutenants retroactive to the first of the month.

Compromise Overridden

This was accomplished by adopting a motion of Senator LaFollette (Prog.) Wisconsin, to return the pay bill to conference with instructions to accept the amendments previously written into the measure by the House on a vote of 312 to 28 and later sustained by a second vote of 332 to 31.

In effect, the senate thus rejected a compromise reached by the joint conference committee, setting the minimum pay at $46 and that of the second lowest rank at $52. Previously the senate had voted to make the pay $42 and $48 in these classes.

Senator Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, was one of six Republicans voting against sending the bill back to conference today. Senator Robert Taft, Cincinnati Republican, was not listed as voting.

Senator Hill (D.), Alabama, said the conferees would meet today to carry out the senate's instructions and would report the revised bill to the senate when it meets again Thursday. Senate action then was expected to be followed by house approval of the measure, sending it to President Roosevelt.

The house rejected a senate proviso authorizing the selective service to set up a priority system to determine the order in which men deferred for dependents could be called to the colors when the A-1 rolls are exhausted. Members of the military committee said they had been given no opportunity to conduct hearings on this provision and could not urge its approval without knowing more about it.

Army Air Corps Forms Unit To Decrease Flying Mishaps

By BILL BONI

Wide World Military Editor

NEW YORK, June 9 — In 21 months the number of pilots in our army air forces increased 315 per cent, the number of flying students increased 1,000 per cent, the number of military airplanes increased 400 per cent, and there was an increase of 800 per cent in the total of hours flown.

Such rapid expansion inevitably has brought with it a heightening in the ratio of inexperienced to experienced pilots. Once the proportion was 3 to 1. Then it was 6 to 1. Today it is close to 50 to 1, and as our air force personnel is multiplied by leaps and bounds it is expected to reach 150 to 1 some time in 1943.

This dilution of experienced personnel has brought a considerable rise in the accident rate—so substantial that Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, air force chief, has established a Directorate of Flying Safety, which has the objective of reducing aircraft accidents by 25 per cent during the next 12 months.

Wrecked Planes Aid Japs

"A smashed-up army bomber in a midwestern cow pasture," writes Col. S. R. Harris, director of Flying Safety, in the latest issue of the Air Force News Letter, "is more of a victory for the Japanese than a flying fortress brought down in combat over Burma.

"When the nearest Zero fighter is some 4,000 miles away, it means that this country has lost one of the most valuable cogs in its war machinery without a bullet being fired or a bomb being dropped in return."

Col. Harris emphasizes the concern among air forces officials over the current rate of accidents to every 1,000 hours of flying—accidents, he declares, which are due in eight out of 10 cases to human failure.

"This means they are preventable. This means they can be stopped by constant vigilance, by the exercise of common sense and the observance of the fundamental rules of safe flying."

Four Basic Rules

Four of these basic rules, which the 20 regional safety officers under Col. Harris' direction will hammer home to commanding officers and aviation cadets alike, are:

Get thoroughly acquainted with your airplane so you will instinctively go for the right controls in case of emergency;

Don't be foolish, cocky or careless;

Don't let your mind wander, but concentrate on flying your plane;

Obey instructions and directives.

As proof that proper precautions and common sense can make for safe flying, Col. Harris could cite the example of two pursuit squadrons commanded by Capt. Mervin L. McNickle, accorded special mention by the war department recently for completing 2,392,745 miles of flying without a casualty, despite the fact one of the squadrons—35th of the 39th pursuit group—was active in the Louisiana and North Carolina maneuvers, two interceptor command exercises, and wartime operations along the Pacific coast.

The director of Flying Safety makes special mention of the fact that accident reports of aircraft investigating committees show that 66 per cent of all accidents occur in landings or taxiing.

"These above all others," he says, "can be prevented by the use of common sense and by the ability of the pilot to 'stay on his toes.'"

Map Extensive Program

In addition to the regional officers, who will keep close contact with air force units in their areas, the directorate of Flying Safety is organizing a far-reaching program of instruction and education — by means of articles, posters, radio programs, motion pictures and photographs.

"This is war," Col. Harris concludes. "Our purpose is to win it. But we can't win it with airplanes that are strewn in pieces over the countryside, and with pilots who crack up before they even see a Jap simply because they are too careless, too cocky or too disobedient to observe the fundamental rules of Flying Safety."

Serious Fire Reported from Aruba Island

By The Associated Press

ST. NICHOLAS, Aruba, Dutch West Indies, June 9—The clubhouse of the Lago Oil Co. burned to the ground in a violent conflagration with loss estimated at $276,000. The fire began Sunday night and burned for 24 hours.

TERMITE DAMAGE SERIOUS PROBLEM

Few people are able to detect termite infestation until much damage has been done, says Emory T. Smith of the Buckeye Terminix Co. During the Spring months termite swarmers, known as "Flying Ants" emerge from the colony to establish new nests.

This indicates that thousands of destructive workers have been left behind to continue their damaging effects. Smith offers detailed information and free inspection by Phoning Mansfield, Dial 1533-1, representative office of Buckeye Terminix Co., of Columbus, Ohio.

FOOD AND CLOTHING RATIONING LIKELY

WPB Deputy Pictures Domestic Commodity Situation.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 9—An official forecast of America's food and clothing situation lists coffee, tea and cocoa as likely to be rationed and clothing as an eventual rationing possibility.

The forecast was by Joseph L. Weiner, deputy director of the war production board division of supply. He pictured the commodity situation as follows:

Rationing of coffee, tea and cocoa is likely. Bananas will be scarce. Fish supplies will be limited by the submarine hazard to fishing fleets, and lease-lend shipments will reduce the amount of pork available. But there is no danger that the country will lack necessary staples.

Rationing of clothing probably can be avoided this year, but the WPB is unwilling to make predictions beyond that time. Wool may be forbidden in some types of clothing, and woolen mills will be required to blend other materials into their fabrics. More cotton must be worn.

Shoes may be scarce. However, stocks of shoes and clothing in commercial hands are higher than they ever have been.

Because of power and oil shortages, travel will have to be curtailed.
